The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, MARCH 19TH, 1913.

We have heard so much in recent years about profit-sharing and co-partnership as a cure for the labour unrest which is constantly disturbing the industrial world that special interest attaches to a report recently issued by the Labour Department of the Board of Trade relating to Profit Sharing and Co-partnership in the United Kingdom. It deals with 133 schemes now known to be in operation, these being the survivors of 299 profit-sharing arrangements started in the United Kingdom up to the present year. Eighty-one schemes have been started since 1900. The report adopts the definition of profit-sharing formulated by the International Co-operative Congress of 1897—namely, that it involves an agreement between an employer and his workpeople under which the latter receive, in addition to their wages, a share, fixed beforehand, in the profits of the undertaking. Profit-sharing thus does not include cases where a grant or bonus is made at the discretion of the employer and not upon any prearranged basis. Labour co-partnership is an extension of profit-sharing, enabling the worker to accumulate his share of profit in the capital of the business, so that he gains the rights and responsibilities of a shareholder. A still further stage is found in some co-partnership schemes where the workers have a direct share in the management as in the profits and are represented among the directors. The duration of the schemes is shown to have varied from one year to forty-one, the average duration being about eight years. More than a third of the total come to an end before the fourth year and more than half before the seventh year of the experiment. The causes operating to bring the experiments to a close are classified in the Report, and the conclusion is drawn that in 92 out of 155 cases the discontinuance of profit-sharing was due to various circumstances, none of which can well be attributed to the operation of the system. The number of cases in which profit-sharing was abandoned on the ground that the system had failed in producing the results hoped for is shown to be 63, or about two-fifths of the whole. A large number of failures seem to have occurred in the various attempts made to give the worker a share of the profits. Gas companies account for 33 out of the 133 existing schemes, but it would be probably unsafe, the Report states, to deduce from their experience any general principles applicable to commercial undertakings of an ordinary character. The 133 businesses now being worked on the profit-sharing principle employ 106,139, which represents but a very small percentage of the labour employed in the Kingdom, as may be gathered from the fact that in the 650 strikes which occurred in the first nine months of last year no fewer than 1,386,978 employees were involved. Detailed tables are given in the Report under notice showing the proportionate addition to wages by the profit-sharing bonus. The total number of participants in the various schemes rose from 11,816 in 1901 to 51,443 in 1911, and the average ratio of bonus varied from 4.5 per cent. in 1908 to 7.1 in 1906, the average for the 10 years being 5.5. The schemes show great diversity as regards the form of the bonus. In about three-fifths of the schemes it is paid in cash; in others it is partly paid in cash and the remainder paid to a provident fund. A more common type of the newer schemes (especially the gasworks schemes) is that in which the bonus is retained for investment in the business. The Report gives a detailed account of schemes of various types. These include the well-known system of participation in profits in force with the firm of Messrs. LEVER, the soap manufacturers; a system in which the right to participate in profits is made contingent upon the employee's investing money, taking the form of a rate of interest on the deposits varying with the profits of the business, such as has been introduced into the woollen manufacturing business of Messrs. Fox Brothers & Co., Wellington; and the system under which 2,788 employees of Sir W. G. Armstrong, Whitworth & Co., of Newcastle and Manchester, held £24,431 on deposit in the business of the Company in December last at an interest of 4 per cent., plus an average bonus of 2.6 per cent., the deposits being deductions of not less than 1s. and not more than £1 of each man's weekly wage. Still another type of scheme is that in which the employees hold shares, while under the Limited Partnerships Act, 1907, a body of employees can acquire an interest in a business, but with no rights of interference in the management. Under one scheme of this description the agreement provides that after paying salaries to the general partners, depreciation, and interest on capital at 5 per cent., the remaining profit shall go to form a profit-sharing fund, until 1s. in the pound shall have been paid on wages, and after that a reserve fund. Another form of profit-sharing is that under which the employees may acquire a share in the capital by investing in shares, to be held by trustees on behalf of the workpeople, of a stated proportion of the bonuses payable under the scheme. With regard to the question generally of a share in the control of the business as well as in the profits, the Report states that as a rule (but with some important exceptions) the shares owned by employees give them the ordinary voting powers, and as time goes on and their holdings increase their voting strength should in due course be augmented. At present the proportion of the total number of votes belonging to the employees reaches or exceeds 5 per cent. in only a few cases, and is in nearly all cases a quite insignificant percentage. The employees are represented on the board of directors in nine schemes. There exist, however, under a very large number of schemes joint committees representing employers and employed with functions of a consultative nature. The public are left to draw their own deductions from the valuable information the Report affords on the schemes now in existence. It is obvious that a wide extension of the co-partnership system, whereby the workman, in addition to obtaining a financial interest above his weekly wage, obtains an insight into the multifarious details of trading, whether private, municipal or national, which in the ordinary way he cannot appreciate, would tend to give a country immunity from trade disputes. While the statistics go to show that increased attention has been paid to this solution of the strike problem in Great Britain in recent years, it is shown to be as yet a comparatively unimportant factor in the general situation, and the large proportion of failures does not serve to encourage any sudden extension of the system, sound though the principle undoubtedly is in theory. Mr. Asquith last year announced his intention to introduce legislation on the labour unrest in the Parliamentary Session of 1913. No mention, however, was made of this in the King's Speech, perhaps because it is a thorny subject which any Government would prefer to have alone until urgency is plainly demonstrated. In any event Legislation could only contemplate the solution of the strike trouble by increasing the conciliation powers now possessed by the Board of Trade.

The induction of the Rev. D. B. Reynolds as chaplain took place at St. Peter's Church last night. The service was conducted by the Ven. Archbishop Barnett and his Lordship Bishop Lander administered the oaths and the charges. At the close of his address Bishop Lander remarked that the work of the chaplain at St. Peter's was more than one man could perform and he hoped before long the people would see their way to provide if not a clerical worker at any rate a lay worker to assist the new chaplain in his strenuous dual task.

THE PARSEE SUIT.

Judgment was delivered yesterday in the Supreme Court by Mr. Justice Gompertz in the action brought by B. U. Talati against M. F. Talati for the cancellation and delivery of an agreement made between the two parties. It was alleged by the plaintiff that defendant and he entered into an agreement, whereby the defendant agreed to assign to the plaintiff 140 permits to import opium into China, for a period terminating in 1916. According to the plaintiff the permits were withdrawn shortly after the signing of the agreement, and that the fact that such withdrawal was possible was not made known to the plaintiff. The defence was that the plaintiff kept on with the agreement, taking his chance whether the withdrawal would be continued or not.

His Lordship entered judgment in favour of defendant.

TROUBLE AT KEWLIANG.

BRITISH SAILORS LANDED.

The sanitary conditions of the Russian tea long are appalling, says a dispatch from Kewliang, and on discovering some bad cases of typhoid the Council decided to fumigate the long. When Mr. Pritchard, the Chief of Police, and his staff tried to enter the building they were greeted with cries of "Kill the foreign devils"; and bricks, stones and chloride of lime were seized and thrown at them. Sailors were landed from H. M. S. Woodlark, and they arrested the ring-leader and his accomplices, who were sentenced to two months' hard labour. The disturbance created great excitement throughout the whole city.

POWERS AND PEACE.

The Powers in their reply to the Allies agree to mediate. They propose that the frontier should end at Midia instead of Rodosto and Midia, and they refuse to entertain the idea of an indemnity. They state that the question of the Aegean Islands and Albania are in the hands of the Powers.

A RUMOUR DENIED.

A message from Athens states that the rumours of Greece-Serbian and Greek-Turkish ententes are semi-officially denied.

THE SIEGE OF SKUTARI.

Ten thousand Servians with 40 guns arrived at Skutari and combined with the Montenegrins in resuming the bombardment on Saturday.

GREEK SUCCESSES.

A message from Athens reports that the Greeks defeated the Turks and occupied Argiro Castro amid enthusiastic demonstrations on the part of the inhabitants.

It is reported from Athens that the Greeks occupied Klissura after a severe fight, losing 13 killed and 40 wounded. The Turkish casualties were heavy.

A POLITICAL TANGLE.

THE QUESTION OF MILITARY SERVICE.

LONDON, March 18th.

The Kendal bye-election is a bewildering affair. The latest development is that Colonel Weston, who has been hailed as fighting for the National Service, has repudiated a message from Lord Roberts, saying that his own scheme was much humbler than Lord Roberts' scheme and falls considerably short of the aspirations of the National Service League. The confusion is thus worse than ever.

Mr. Somerville, the Liberal candidate, in a final appeal to the constituency, says "The country regards this election as turning on the vital question of compulsory military service advocated by Colonel Weston."

THE CANADIAN NAVAL BILL.

LONDON, March 18th.

The correspondence between Mr. Churchill and Mr. Borden has been issued. Mr. Churchill sums up the matter by saying that it would be wholly unwise for Canada to attempt to build battle ships at present. The cost of the plant alone would be £50,000,000. Canada could not be ready for four years. He points out that trained workmen could not be obtained in Canada, and it would be most difficult to know what plant to lay down owing to the possible introduction of internal combustion engines which might revolutionise construction. He mentions the shipbuilding experiments of Japan and Spain, both countries still requiring great assistance.

A RUBBER DEMONSTRATION.

Lord Curzon, presiding at a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society on the occasion of the David Livingstone Centenary, eloquently eulogised the dead explorer.

Mr. Harry Johnston in a lecture described Livingstone as the pioneer of the Cape to Cairo ideal.

THE CHINA LOAN.

LONDON, March 18th.

Replying in the House of Commons to Sir J. D. Rees, Mr. Acland said the Loan to China would be made on certain specific objects, not including assistance for Chinese forces threatening Tibet.

THE STATUS OF TIBET.

LONDON, March 18th.

In the House of Commons Sir J. D. Rees asked whether under the Treaty of Lhasa Tibet was free to enter into independent engagements with Mongolia, and whether the Imperial Government recognised any change in the status of Mongolia's relations with China.

Mr. Acland, Under Secretary of State, replied that there was nothing in the Treaty to preclude Tibet from entering into independent engagements providing the terms of Article IX. were not infringed. His answer to the second part of the question was in the negative.

BRITISH ARMY ESTIMATES.

LONDON, March 18th.

Colonel Seely in a memorandum on the Army Estimates issued on Monday afternoon says that four aviation squadrons have been formed with 128 trained flyers. The fifth and sixth squadrons will be raised in 1913-14 towards the total of eight squadrons recommended for the expeditionary force. He dwelt on the difficulty of obtaining an adequate supply of aeroplanes and also skilled mechanics.

Referring to the Territorials, Colonel Seely states that they show a decrease of 97 officers and 10,659 men, solely due to the numbers joining in 1908 whose engagements have expired. There is every indication that recruiting would be well maintained.

THE TEA MARKET.

LONDON, March 18th.

Discussing the prospects of the tea market, the Times says the conclusion is warranted that the popularity of tea as a beverage, the trade inquiry for it, and the ability of customers to pay for it are steadily growing in various directions. While India, Ceylon and Java are producing and selling more and more China's sales have receded nearly £12,000,000 this season, and Japan's exports are not expanding. The article concludes that in spite of a relapse since February the many producers in India and Ceylon may confidently be said to be hopeful, because their tea is almost everywhere recognised as the best.

AN AUSTRALIAN TRADE DISPUTE.

LONDON, March 18th.

A message from Sydney states that 4,000 South Coast colliers have struck work, alleging victimisation of a union official.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

LONDON, March 18th.

H.R.H. the Prince of Wales has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant in the Royal Navy.

The Prince of Wales left for Germany on Monday evening.

STORMS AT HOME.

LONDON, March 18th.

A gale has raged on the coasts of Great Britain. There is deep snow in many places, and telephones and telegraphs are affected.

MAGISTRATES AND HOME SECRETARY.

LONDON, March 18th.

The correspondence between the Richmond Magistrates and Mr. McKenna has been published. The former protested against the release from prison of Miss Lenton, the Suffragette, who afterwards disappeared. Mr. McKenna replied that it was his paramount duty to save life.

INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL.

LONDON, March 18th.

The international association football match between England and Wales, played at Bristol on Monday, resulted in a victory for the former by four goals to three.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CELEBRATIONS.

"STRIKING" WAITERS.

LONDON, March 18th.

St. Patrick's Day was celebrated on Monday with the customary display of shamrocks, the presentation of Queen Alexandra's Shamrocks to the Irish Guards, and processions and banquets in Ireland.

Mr. W. Redmond, at a banquet in the Hotel Cecil, announced the gift of $10,000 from America. He quoted the speech of Mr. Bryan at New York that humanity owed a debt to Ireland for ending hereditary rule in the British Empire.

As the banquet was beginning the kitchen staff, responding to the cry of "Down d'shes," struck work, but the management promptly conceded them their terms, enabling the banquet to continue.

The Union of Restaurant and Hotel Workers has recently organised sixteen successful strikes in London by similar tactics with the object of removing grievances under the Shop Hours Act.

Shamrocks were sent down the bore hole to two Irish miners who have been entombed for five days in a flooded mine in Cumberland.

PREMIER AND TRADE UNIONISTS.

LONDON, March 18th.

Mr. Asquith, replying to a deputation from the Trade Union Congress, declined to commit the Government to the principle of nationalisation of mines and railways, with regard to the value of which he was not convinced.

THE MAGISTRACY.

Nine men charged by Inspector Gourlay with smoking opium in a house at Shaikwan were fined $5 each or in default fourteen days.

A fine of $10 was imposed upon a market stallkeeper for using defective scales. Inspector Withers, who prosecuted, said that defendant had three scales two of which were faulty.

A Chinese charged with causing an obstruction in the street at West Point said that he rented the place. His Worship exclaimed, "What, the street?" Defendant then explained that he rented a doorway. Mr. Hazeland imposed a fine of $3.

Detective Brown prosecuted a Chinese with the larceny of clothing from a house at Yaumati and mentioned that there had been a series of larcenies in that locality. Defendant was committed to prison for one month and ordered to be exposed in the stocks for four hours.

Antonio Francisco dos Remedios, a clerk, in the employ of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., was charged before Mr. Melbourne with stealing press-copied business letters belonging to Henry Cruz on February 11th. A remand for a week was ordered, bail being allowed in the sum of $500.

Sentence of one month's imprisonment and to be exposed in the stocks for four hours was passed upon a Chinese who was found guilty by Mr. Hazeland of stealing a quantity of brass from the cableship Recorder. Defendant was discovered lowering a bag containing the brass over the side of the ship into a sampan. The third officer expressed the conviction that the defendant was the "lamb" in the case, and that others were implicated.

Fourteen men were charged with gambling at 55, Centre Street, two of the number being charged as keepers. Mr. Shenton, who appeared for the first two defendants, said all the men pleaded guilty to gambling. The men were rich coolies and went into the house to keep out of the wet and commenced gambling. The charge of keeping was withdrawn against the first two, and a fine of $2 each was imposed on all.

NORTH-GERMAN LLOYD EARNINGS FOR 1912.

FOR 1912.

The annual report of the North-German Lloyd Company for 1912 shows that the gross earnings in that year amounted to 51,750,000 marks (£2,587,000), being an increase of 10,250,000 marks (£512,500) as compared with the gross earnings of 1911. The directors recommend a dividend at the rate of 7 per cent.

New Health and Nerve Power.

Make the above resolution to-day and keep it. "My health benefits by every tin of Sanatogen I take," writes the famous war correspondent, Mr. A. G. HALES.

So will your health improve daily on Sanatogen; for, as LADY HENRY SOMERSET writes, "Sanatogen undoubtedly invigorates the nerves—braces one to health—brings a new hopefulness and enjoyment of life!"

Sanatogen—the Tonic Food.

"Sanatogen has made a new person of me! I am able to enjoy both work and play again," writes Madame SARAH GRAND, the famous author. And Sanatogen will make a new person of you—you will look well, feel well and be well—there is no doubt about that. Write to-day for a Free Copy of "The Art of Living," by a famous medical writer. This interesting book tells you all about Sanatogen, and also contains a great deal of valuable advice on health topics. Write at once to the manufacturers of Sanatogen, Messrs. A. Wulff & Co., 6, Kiukiang Road, Shanghai. And buy a bottle of Sanatogen to-day—it is sold by all Chemists.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY

A PUMP THAT DOES NOT CLOG.

A drainage pump taking up liquids carrying considerable masses of hard and fibrous solids is the mechanical novelty of the Hon. R. C. Parsons. It is of the centrifugal type, with a conical fan or impeller, and as the liquid is admitted to the outer side of this fan, the blades, rotating against a knife in the casing, act like shears to cut up any solid passing into the spiral chamber leading to the outlet. Any material not sufficiently reduced at the first revolution is re-cut until the pieces are fine enough to pass out. In the severe English tests, with 8-inch suction and delivery pipes, the pump worked effectively when fibrous substances clogged up a coarse sieve like flannel in a quarter of a minute, and greasy cotton waste, pieces of sack and clothing, paper, hemp-ropes, bricks and pieces of wood were steadily pumped—even a suit of overalls, a dead rabbit and the handle of an engineer's hammer being cut into small pieces without causing any interruption. After some hours of such work, the pump's internal parts were clean and undamaged.

A POWERFUL GERM-DESTROYER.

The ultra-violet sterilizing lamp described to the French Academy by V. Henri and others consists of a quartz U-tube, with sides nearly touching, the diameter being 3.5-inch, and the length of the arms 63 inches. The two mercury electrodes are near together at the end. A current of 3 amperes at 500 volts gives an illuminating power of 8,000 candles, and the chemical reactions by the ultra-violet rays are greatly quickened. Certain bacteria are destroyed 60 times as rapidly as by a 110-volt lamp. The sterilizing lamps are durable, and a plant of 8 has worked 1,200 hours without change. Water, when being treated in large quantity, is circulated around a transparent-quartz cylinder containing the lamp.

A FAITH THAT DIES HARD.

The diving-rod, long discredited by scientific men, has believers still, and a German society founded in 1911 for studying the diving-rod claimed 500 members by April, 1912. An investigation in German South Africa is said to have shown success in 70 to 80 per cent. of trials.

PROGRESS IN AIR SOUNDING.

The limit to which manned balloons can ascend is about 30,000 feet, but a sounding balloon lately sent up in Italy, at the University of Pavia, reached a height of 121,000 feet, or nearly 23 miles. The sounding balloons, the modern device for exploring the upper air, are usually bags of silk or rubber, about six feet in diameter, filled with hydrogen gas. They rise until the pressure of the gas causes them to collapse or explode, and a parachute then brings down safely the story of the air passed through, as taken down automatically by a special apparatus. This apparatus, called a "meteorograph," combines several instruments in one. It has an accurate chronograph for time, an aneroid barometer for height or atmospheric pressure, a metallic thermometer for temperature, a hair hygrometer for relative humidity, and an anemometer for wind velocity, and each instrument gives a continuous record by means of a pen resting on a rotating cylinder covered with ruled paper. The most remarkable fact shown by these balloon soundings of the last 10 or 12 years is that the air exists in two very distinct layers. In the lower layer, or "troposphere," the air cools about 1 deg. Fahrenheit for each 300 feet of ascent; but in the upper or isothermal layer, or "stratosphere," further ascent gives stationary or rising temperature. The upper limit of the isothermal layer is unknown. The lower limit—lower in winter than in summer—has an average height of about 6 miles in middle latitudes, but is lower near the poles, and reaches a great height at the equator.

The temperature of this layer ranges from 60 degs. F. below zero in summer to 71 degs. below in winter.

WALKING ON WATER.

The latest of the numerous attempts to construct water-shoes for walking on the water is credited to a German cabinet-maker. He has experimented on Lake Ammer, in Bavaria, and has walked across the lake—about two miles—in two hours. The propelling device is a series of three paddles, mounted on hinges, on the side of each shoe. A sliding mechanism causes these paddles to give a forward motion, like that of skating, as the foot is moved, an upright stick on each shoe steadying the walker.

MORE HEAT UNDER CLOUDS THAN WHEN CLEAR.

The curious discovery of Kimball and Miller, of the Mt. Weather Observatory, is that favourably situated clouds may increase the radiation received from sun and sky as much as 40 per cent. Radiation reflected from the clouds is added to that coming direct from the sun.

COLOURED MOVING PICTURES.

Of light not explained strictly by temperature radiations, Prof. Wilder D. Bancroft, of Cornell University, finds that these forms have been recognized. Photoluminescence, due to the stimulation of a substance by light; thermoluminescence, given out when phosphorescent substances are gently heated; pyroluminescence, the portion of the light of flames not due to the incandescence of solids; electroluminescence, produced by the passage of an electric current through a gas; cathodoluminescence, due to cathode rays impinging on a solid or a liquid; anodoluminescence, the corresponding light of canal rays or positive ions; chemiluminescence, the light hitherto recognized as resulting from chemical action; crystalloluminescence, emitted during crystallization from solution; triboluminescence, emitted when crystals are crushed; and organoluminescence, produced by bacteria, marine organisms, luminous worms, flying insects, etc. Prof. Bancroft brings together researches tending to show that these different kinds of luminescence are all results of chemical action. It is suggested that the reactions causing fluorescence may be stimulated by other means than that of light, and that if we knew the reactions and how to cause them rapidly we should have solutions fluorescing rapidly in the dark. This is of possible importance for the production of cold light, a revolution in lighting along this line being predicted.

A LIGHT OF PROMISE.

For photographs in natural colours, theory requires the combination of three single-colour views made under screens of the so-called primary colours. In the first successful coloured cinematographs, however, G. A. Smith and Charles Urban some years ago used only two sets of negatives, and by passing these films in rapid alternations before a screen very satisfactory moving pictures in colours are obtained. An improved process, using three colours, has been lately shown in London. The red, green and blue-violet constituents are simultaneously taken in a triple picture by a single camera, and suitable projection rapidly superimposes these parts so as to give on the screen a picture in very accurate colours.

A POCKET GAS DETECTOR.

In the pocket air-tester of C. Glatzel, an Austrian, a rubber bulb draws a sample of the air into a glass tube containing paper moistened with palladium chloride. Carbon monoxide turns the paper brown—within one minute if the noxious gas is more than 0.1 per cent.

The Remington Typewriter Factory is working all day and all night, and is Six Thousand Machines behind in its order.

The extensive enlargements to this factory, recently completed, have already proved inadequate to supply the rapidly increasing demand for the Visible Remington Models, and contracts have just been let for another and even vaster addition to the works.

For 10 months of 1911 our business has been larger than for the whole 12 months of any year since the beginning.

Prince Ernest met Princess Luise. The relations thus established have been carefully fostered, and Prince Max of Baden, who married the Duke of Cumberland's eldest daughter, has also taken a hand in the work of reconciliation. It is hoped that a royal marriage will finally settle the "Brunswick question," and fill up the one remaining gap in the federation of German Princes. The betrothal was formally announced at Karlsruhe.

TRIBUTE TO BRITISH RULE.

M. Benard, secretary-general of the Mission Laïque, has returned from inspecting the French Schools in Syria and Egypt, and he states that the Mussulmans in Syria are hostile to France on account of the way in which their co-religionists are treated in Algeria. It is impossible, he says, for the Mussulmans of Syria not to draw unfavourable comparisons between British rule in Egypt and French rule in Algeria. In the latter place Mussulmans, who have received a French education, are excluded from important posts in the Civil Service, and it would be easier for them to find a career in Syria. Again, unlike the English, the French, under various pretexts, do their utmost to prevent Mussulmans from making the pilgrimage to Mecca, and have not the same respect for individual liberty. Thus, both in Algeria and Tunis a Mussulman may be imprisoned or exiled without any judgment being given against him. Such a thing is impossible in Egypt. Mussulmans, if they were forced to emigrate, would all prefer to live in Egypt rather than Algeria, because they know that if there exists in Egypt a small minority of malcontents, the vast majority of Mussulmans are perfectly satisfied, while in Algeria the opposite is true.

OUR NEW MACHINE GUN.

A new pattern machine gun is about to be issued to the Cavalry, but the question of the issue to the infantry is still under consideration. The gun is the new Vicker's rifle-calibre automatic gun and its chief advantage is its lightness. The weight of our present Maxim is 90 lb., that of the German type Maxim is 40 lb., while the Austrian Schwarzlose gun is 33.6 lb. In order to extract the best tactical use from these guns, the detachments in charge of them have often to push forward with the firing lines of infantry or dismounted cavalry, and it is very important on these occasions that they should be able to move fast. According to the military correspondent of the Times the cooling arrangements in the new Maxim allow the water to go right back over the bullet chamber of the barrel, and 25,000 rounds have been fired from one barrel, the gun still giving good targets. The feeding arrangements are good and the parts have been designed to give the maximum of strength, and are at the same time simple in construction.

THE ICE SCOUT.

The possibility of another such disaster as that of the Titanic is likely to be very much lessened by the experiment which the Government has undertaken, through the Board of Trade, in conjunction with the principal Atlantic steamship lines, in sending out the Scotia to the North Atlantic to watch and report upon the break up of the Arctic ice-fields in the spring of the year. The Scotia will be the guardian of the lives of Transatlantic travellers, and her commander, Captain Robertson, has practically a free hand in regard to the movements of the ship. The Scotia has in Captain Robertson a seaman with unique qualifications for the duties entrusted to him. It will be his task to obtain an estimate of the amount of ice which is likely to come down to the trade routes, and collect all possible data to show the course it will probably take. The wireless plant of the Scotia will be of the most powerful description and her two operators will keep unremitting watch. They will report the ice movements to the wireless stations at Cape Rice and Sable Island, and so by one or the other it will be possible to communicate with every ship that can be in danger, provided she be fitted with wireless.
